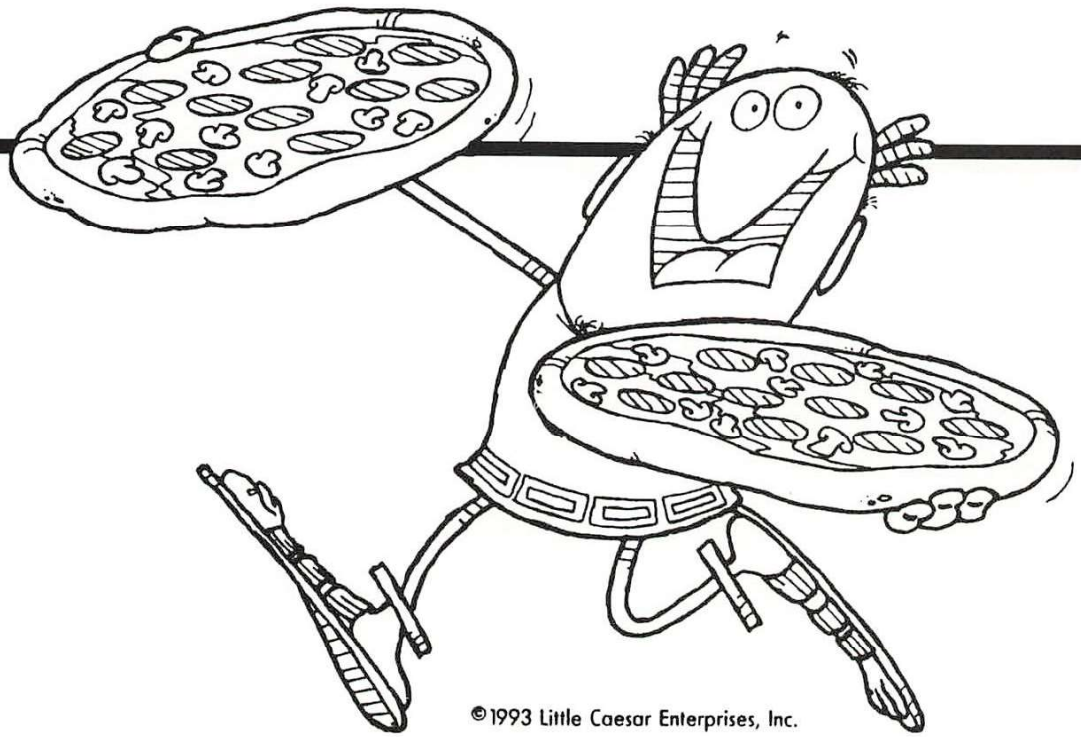
THE BEST PIZZA VALUE IN AMERICA!



©1993 Little Caesar Enterprises, Inc.

Little Caesars® Pizza!Pizza!®

Two great pizzas! One low price.® Always! Always!

In a national survey, Little Caesars beat out all other pizza chains for having the best value to the consumer. -Restaurants and Institutions Magazine

Winner! That's the best word to describe Mike Ilitch as a businessman, civic leader and sportsman. He has a passion for winning which has made him a success in every undertaking, and he's intent on bringing the Stanley Cup to Detroit.

Ilitch is in his 12th season as owner of the Red Wings since purchasing the club from Bruce Norris June 22, 1982. He took a team which had hit tough times and built it into what a 1993 issue of Financial World magazine hailed as the NHL's most valuable franchise and one of the most successful in all of sports.

Ilitch's love for hockey has helped the game to grow locally and nationally. His support for youth hockey was recognized in 1991 when he won the Lester Patrick Trophy for outstanding service to hockey in the United States. The Little Caesars hockey program is one of North America's finest, producing many NHL performers. He also helps youngsters to participate in other sports by sponsoring leagues, teams, camps and special events in softball, baseball, basketball and soccer, with more than 50,000 youngsters participating nationally each year.

Ilitch's business success is rooted in his Little Caesars Pizza company. In 1959, Mike and wife Marian opened the first Little Caesars restaurant in the Detroit suburb of Garden City. Two years passed and they opened another. From those humble beginnings has risen an enormous operation that includes more than 4,500 Little Caesars restaurants in all 50 states, Canada, England and Puerto Rico. Ilitch was an innovator in the pizza industry, developing a conveyor oven that enabled pizza to be ready in minutes. He founded Blue Line Distributing, which supplies Little Caesars restaurants with ingredients, and he enhanced his status as a restaurateur with gourmet pizza restaurants called America's Pizza Cafe, plus other local theme restaurants.

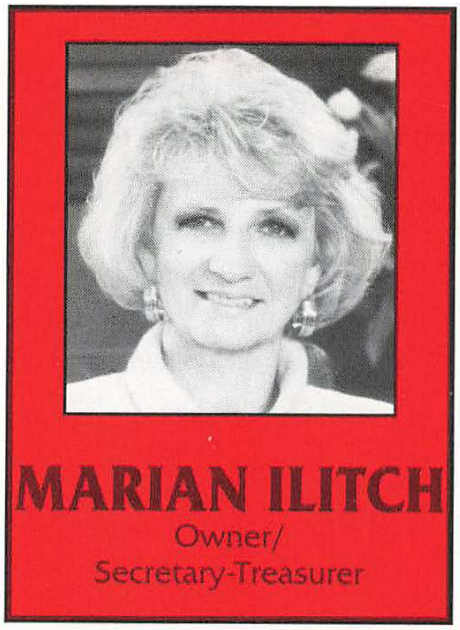
A knack for knowing what the customer wants has made Ilitch eminently successful in other business and community ventures. In January of '83, he purchased Olympia Stadium Corp. from Bruce Norris and renamed it Olympia Arenas, Inc. — the management company for Joe Louis Arena, Cobo Arena, Fox Theatre, Meadowbrook Music Festival, Royal Oak Music Theatre, The Second City comedy theatre and the Glens Falls (NY) Civic Center.

Sportsman Ilitch also owns the Adirondack Red Wings (Detroit's American Hockey League affiliate) and Detroit Drive of the Arena Football League, and in August of '92 he realized a dream when he bought the Detroit Tigers. His acquisition of the ballclub drew raves from the community, and the praise continued to echo when he made sparkling renovations at Tiger Stadium.

Ilitch truly loves Detroit and has played a major role in downtown revitilization efforts. He bought the Fox Theatre in July of '87 and restored the historic edifice to its original splendor. In an era when businesses are abandoning cities, Ilitch then went against the grain by moving his corporate headquaters into the adjacent Fox Office Centre in December of '89. He has received several honors for his skill and sensitivity in the business world.

Mike also has compassion for the needy, and this sparked the creation of Little Caesars' Love Kitchen program — two pizza restaurants on wheels that have fed more than 875,000 homeless and hungry people throughout the U.S. and Canada since 1985. The program received a Presidential Citation for Private Sector Initiatives from the Reagan Administration, and the Bush Administration's Presidential Citation for Volunteerism. Similar involvement with other organizations such as Easter Seals, Special Olympics and the NAACP have earned him numerous community awards, among them the 1993 Richard C. Van Dusen Summit Award from the Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce and March of Dimes Humanitarian of the Year in 1990.

Mike and Marian, who is secretary-treasurer of the family businesses and co-owner of the Red Wings, have seven grown children, Denise Ilitch Lites, Ron, Mike Jr., Lisa Ilitch Murray, Atanas, Christopher and Carole Ilitch Trepeck.



While Mike Ilitch is the person most often in the public spotlight, it never should be forgotten that Marian Ilitch has worked side-by-side with her husband since they opened the first Little Caesars Pizza restaurant in 1959.

Marian is a financial and organizational wizard whose skills have played a central role in the spectacular success of Ilitch-owned businesses. The Red Wings are the most financially successful team in the NHL, and Little Caesars has burgeoned into a 4,500-unit chain covering all 50 states, Canada, England and Puerto Rico. And those are only two of many success stories.

Marian serves as secretary-treasurer for Little Caesar International, the Red Wings and their Adirondack (AHL) farm club, the Detroit Tigers, Olympia Arenas, Inc., Fox Theatre, Meadowbrook Music Festival, Royal Oak Music Theatre, Second City comedy club and Blue Line Distributing. She also is a driving force in areas beyond finances in those organizations.

While cultivating a business, Marian worked full time and also raised seven children — Denise Ilitch Lites, Ron, Mike Jr., Lisa Ilitch Murray, Atanas, Christopher and Carole Ilitch Trepeck.

Experience made Marian sensitive to the needs of women, and she has set up scholarships at several Detroit-area colleges to encourage educational opportunities for mothers who work outside the home. She also has been involved with Children's Hospital of Michigan and the Easter Seal Telethon. Marian and Mike have received numerous awards for community service, including Michiganians of the Year in 1988, the 1992 Goodfellows of the Year Award and the 1993 Richard C. Van Dusen Summit Award from the Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce.

Marian's accomplishments as a businesswoman were recognized in 1988 with the Pacesetter Award, which is bestowed upon women for outstanding contributions in the food service industry.

When looking for reasons why the Red Wings rank among the NHL's elite teams, one cannot overlook the contributions made by Jim Devellano, in his 12th season with Detroit and 27th in the NHL.

Much of the talent, either on the club's NHL roster or its minor league affiliates, was scouted and drafted by Devellano, especially in his eight-year tenure as general manager.

Devellano continues to play a key role in scouting players and helping the scouting staff to prepare for the Entry Draft. He also serves as the team's alternate on the NHL's Board of Governors.

Devellano became general manager July 12, 1982, and built a team through the draft, trades and free agency that won a pair of Norris Division regular-season championships ('88 and '89) and made two appearances in the Stanley Cup semifinals ('87 and '88). He also developed a top farm club in Adirondack which won two Calder Cup titles as AHL champions ('86 and '89) under his command.

Devellano, 50, didn't play professional hockey but worked in various levels of the game in his hometown of Toronto. He joined the St. Louis Blues as a scout in '67 when the NHL expanded from six to 12 teams. The Blues reached the Stanley Cup final in each of their first three seasons.

The New York Islanders beckoned when founded in '72, and it was there that Devellano made his mark as one of the game's best scouts, helping to mold a club that won four Stanley Cup titles (80-83). In 79-80, he became G.M. of the Islanders' Indianapolis (CHL) farm club and was named Minor League Executive of the Year by The Hockey News after his first season. He returned to the Islanders' office in '81 as assistant G.M.

Mike Ilitch bought the the Red Wings in June of '82 and brought Devellano on board less than a month later. Jim became a team vice-president Dec. 30, 1985, and assumed his present position July 13, 1990.

"Jimmy D." is single and resides in Detroit.

Bryan Murray earned a reputation as one of the finest coaches in NHL history during 12 years behind the bench, and he's making an equally impressive rise among the game's best general managers in only his fourth year in that position.

Last May 26, Murray dropped the dual role as G.M./coach he held in his first three years in Detroit since joining the organization July 13, 1990, becoming the ninth general manager and 21st head coach in team history. He was only the sixth coach to serve simultaneously as G.M. (others were Art Duncan, Jack Adams, Sid Abel, Ned Harkness and Alex Delvecchio).

Murray, 50, left his mark in the NHL record book as a coach. He's sixth on the all-time victory list with a 467-337-112 record in 916 regular-season games, including a 124-91-29 mark in 244 contests with Detroit. His regular-season winning percentage of .571 is tied for eighth with Billy Reay among those coaching 600 or more games.

The hockey wisdom Murray possessed as a coach also has been evident in his tenure as G.M. He has made several brilliant trades and free-agent acquisitions, quickly building a team from one that had missed the playoffs in 1989-90 into a club that ranks among the NHL's best.

The Red Wings were second in the Norris Division and fifth overall in the NHL in 1992-93 with a 47-29-9 record, establishing club records in victories, points (103), goals (369) and power-play goals (113) — the latter two tops in the league last season. In 91-92, Detroit won the division title and was third overall with a 43-25-12 mark for 98 points.

Murray, who won the Jack Adams Award as NHL Coach of the Year in 83-84 with Washington, captured one other division title, in 88-89 (the only first-place finish in Capitals history). Seven of his teams registered 90 or more points and four topped the 100 mark.

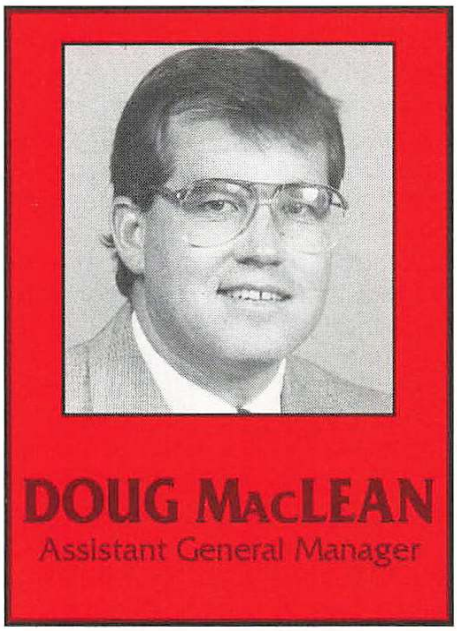
Murray broke into the NHL coaching ranks Nov. 11, 1981, after the Capitals had gotten off to a poor start. He compiled a splendid record in 8 1/2 seasons with Washington before being replaced by his brother, Terry, Jan. 15, 1990. Bryan was the 12th coach in NHL history to spend at least that many successive seasons with the same team.

In addition to a division championship, Murray guided the Capitals to five second-place finishes and three appearances in the division playoff final. In his seven full seasons at Washington, the club averaged 43 victories and 95 points (second only to Glen Sather and the Edmonton Oilers in that span). Ironically, his winningest team as a coach, the 85-86 Capitals with 107 points on a 50-23-7 record, finished third overall in the league and second in the Patrick Division behind Philadelphia (110 points).

Born Dec. 5, 1942, in Shawville, QUE, Murray began his coaching career with an amateur team in his hometown, winning five championships in his final six seasons. A graduate of McGill University in Montreal, he served four years as athletic director and hockey coach at his alma mater. Murray joined the junior coaching ranks with the Regina Pats (WHL) and made his debut by taking a team that had finished last the season before to the league title in 79-80.

Moving up to Hershey (AHL), Murray led the Washington farm club to its best record in 40 years in 80-81 and was named Minor League Coach of the Year by The Hockey News. He began the 81-82 season in Hershey before getting the Capitals' job.

Bryan and wife Geri have two daughters, Heide and Brittany, and reside in suburban Detroit.



Doug MacLean, in his fourth season with the Red Wings, has brought hockey expertise and management skills to many areas of the organization. He joined Bryan Murray as assistant coach in 90-91, became associate coach the following season and was named assistant general manager in the summer of '92.

MacLean, 39, also serves as general manager of Detroit's Adirondack (AHL) farm club and oversees player development at other affiliates in Fort Wayne (IHL) and Toledo (ECHL). He assists Murray with minor league contracts and administrative details, makes scouting junkets through North America and Europe and helps the NHL to put together the Red Wings' schedule.

MacLean spent six years as an NHL assistant coach, including 88-89 and part of 89-90 when Murray coached in Washington. Midway through the 89-90 season, MacLean become head coach of the Capitals' AHL farm team in Baltimore, finishing with a 17-13-5 record and leading the club to third place in the South Division on an overall 43-30-7 mark.

MacLean broke in as an NHL assistant at St. Louis in 86-87 and spent two seasons under Jacques Martin. Earlier, in 85-86, he had been head coach at the University of New Brunswick.

A native of Summerside, PEI, MacLean played collegiate hockey and earned a bachelor's degree at the University of Price Edward Island. In '74 he was invited to St. Louis' training camp for a tryout. MacLean got started in coaching as an assistant with the London Knights (OHL) while studying for his masters degree in educational psychology at Western Ontario University.

Scott Bowman has been described by many as the most brilliant tactician in NHL history. The game may be hockey, but Bowman plays it like a game of chess, making one shrewd move after another to outmaneuver his opponent. The results have been phenominal for the man who already has a plaque in the Hockey Hall of Fame.

Bowman is the winningest coach in NHL history, has guided teams to six Stanley Cup championships and was inducted into the Hall of Fame in 1991. Yet his thirst for success has yet to be quenched, and he's looking to become the first coach in league history to win Cup titles with three different teams.

Bowman, 60, joined the Red Wings June 15, becoming the 22nd head coach in franchise history. He had coached the Pittsburgh Penguins the previous two seasons, winning his sixth Stanley Cup title in 1992. Only Toe Blake (8) has won more Cup championships. Nine times in 21 seasons, Bowman has been to the Cup final, tied with Blake for second behind Dick Irvin (16).

With an all-time regular-season record of 834-380-226 in 1440 games, Bowman entered this season with 89 more victories than his nearest competitor, Al Arbour (745-541-236 in 1522 contests through 1992-93). In addition, Bowman has the best regular-season winning percentage (.658) of anyone who has coached at least 600 games.

Bowman ranks first on the all-time playoff coaching ledger in victories and games with a 137-82 record in 219 outings. He has coached 43 series (second to Irvin's 45) and won 30 (sharing the lead with Arbour). Among those coaching a minimum of 65 postseason games, Bowman's .626 winning percentage is third after Glen Sather (.706) and Blake (.689). In Stanley Cup final action, Bowman is third in victories with a 24-17 mark in 41 games, trailing Irvin and Blake (32 wins each), and Bowman is third in games after Irvin (77) and Blake (48).

Last season Pittsburgh won the President's Trophy by finishing first overall in the NHL with 119 points on a 56-21-7 record. It was Bowman's 10th division championship and the fifth time one of his teams was first overall in the NHL (he also tied once for best record). Bowman's teams have missed the playoffs only twice.

Bowman broke into the NHL coaching ranks with the St. Louis Blues in the 1967-68 season, when the NHL expanded from six to 12 teams. The Blues advanced to the Cup final in each of their first three seasons and won a pair of division titles.

Moving in 1971 to Montreal — where he had worked and coached in the Canadiens' minor league system — Bowman achieved his greatest success. He won the Stanley Cup five times (1973 and '76 through '79) and six division titles in eight seasons.

In seven of his eight seasons in Montreal, the Canadiens notched more than 100 points, and they missed the mark once with 99. The three best victory and point totals in NHL history belong to Bowman's Montreal teams (60 wins and 132 points in 76-77, 59 and 129 in 77-78 and 58 and 127 in 75-76). The 76-77 club holds the league record for fewest defeats (8) in a season of 70 or more games.

Bowman went to Buffalo in 1979, where he was general manager and shared coaching duties until 1987. He won another division title in his first year behind the Sabres' bench when they were 47-17-16 for 110 points in 1979-80.

Bowman worked with CBC-TV's "Hockey Night in Canada" from 1987 until joining Pittsburgh's front office in June of '90 as the Penguins' director of player development and recruitment. When the late Bob Johnson became ill shortly before the 91-92 season, Bowman took the coaching reins and led the Penguins to their second consecutive Stanley Cup.

Bowman also has been a winner on the international stage, coaching Team Canada to the 1976 Canada Cup title. He also coached Team Canada in the '81 Canada Cup and guided the NHL All-Stars in a three-game series against the Soviet Union in '79.

William Scott Bowman was born Sept. 18, 1933, in Montreal. He and wife Suella have five children, Alicia, David, Stanley, Bob and Nancy, and spend the off-season in suburban Buffalo.

Barry Smith has brought a wealth of experience and knowledge to the Red Wings as an assistant coach since joining the organization July 28. Although Detroit is a change of address for Smith, he is no stranger to the main tenant in the dressing room, Head Coach Scott Bowman, having assisted him in Buffalo and Pittsburgh.

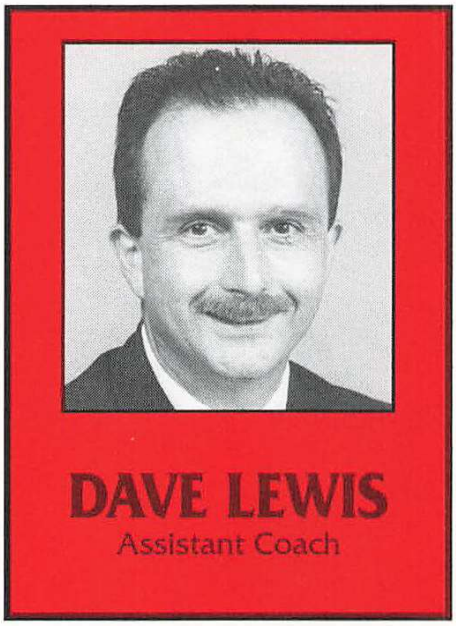
Smith, 42, has been an assistant at Pittsburgh for the previous three seasons, first under the late Bob Johnson and then two years with Bowman while the Penguins won Stanley Cup championships in 1991 and '92. Smith also spent three years as an assistant at Buffalo and has coached on the collegiate and international levels.

Barry entered the coaching ranks in 1975 as head coach at Elmira (NY) College while earning a masters degree in education. His clubs won three Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference titles and twice were NCAA Division III finalists.

Moving to Europe, Smith coached in Sweden from 1981 to '84, and Norway from 1984 to '86, serving as an assistant on the Norwegian club in World Championship competition. He also scouted European prospects for the Sabres, and in March of '86 he moved to Buffalo as Bowman's assistant. Smith worked one year under Bowman and remained with the Sabres until 1989, when he went to Italy for one season to coach the Alleghe club and the Italian National Team. He joined the Penguins in 1990-91 as Johnson's assistant, and also was an aide to Johnson on Team USA in the 1991 Canada Cup tournament.

A native of Buffalo, Smith received a degree in physical education in 1972 from Ithaca (NY) College, where he starred in hockey and football. He was elected to the school's Hall of Fame in 1992.

Barry and wife Mary have a son, Ryan, and a daughter, Molly, and spend the off-season in suburban Buffalo.



Dave Lewis is in his seventh year as a Detroit assistant coach, first with Jacques Demers, then Bryan Murray and now Scott Bowman. Lewis' primary duties have been altered somewhat under Bowman and include extensive video work and prescouting of opponents, along with some on-ice practice responsibilities.

Lewis, 40, joined the coaching staff immediately after retiring as a player Nov. 6, 1987, amid his 15th NHL season. This is his eighth year in the Detroit organization since signing as a free agent (no compensation) July 28, 1986.

A native of Kindersley, SASK, Lewis played junior hockey for Saskatoon (WHL) and was the New York Islanders' second pick (33rd overall) in the 1973 Entry Draft — selected by Jim Devellano, the Islanders' chief scout at the time. He moved directly from the junior ranks to the NHL and never played in the minor leagues.

Lewis' biggest milestone came when he played in his 1,000th regular-season game Apr. 1, 1987, against Philadelphia at Joe Louis Arena. He's one of only 86 players, including 26 defensemen, in NHL history to reach that plateau. In all, he played 1,008 regular-season games with the Islanders, Los Angeles, New Jersey and Detroit, recording 36 goals, 187 assists and 953 PIM. He appeared in 91 playoff games, with one goal, 20 assists and 143 PIM.

One of the constants in the Red Wings' organization for more than a decade has been Dan Belisle, who has responded splendidly to any call to duty.

Belisle is in his 12th season with the club, including his eighth as pro scouting director. Belisle scouts opponents before they play Detroit and provides information to the coaching staff which is important in developing a game plan. He also observes numerous other NHL and minor-league games to evaluate players and provide input required in considering trades or free-agent acquisitions.

Belisle, 56, joined the Red Wings in 82-83 as an assistant coach under Nick Polano. He served as an assistant to Harry Neale and Brad Park, then took his present position in the summer of '86.

Belisle was a successful minor-league coach before becoming head coach of the Washington Capitals in 78-79. He led Washington to a 15-point improvement over the previous year but was dismissed early in the 79-80 season.

Dan returned to the minors in 80-81 as general manager/coach at Dallas (CHL), guiding the club to the regular-season title and winning the league's Coach of the Year award (the fourth time he received such an honor in the minors).

Belisle made his pro coaching debut in 72-73 with Des Moines (IHL) and won the title in his second season. He moved to Syracuse (NAHL) in 75-76, winning regular-season and playoff titles in his second year, then went to Philadelphia (AHL) in 77-78.

A native of South Porcupine, ONT, Belisle spent most of his 15-year playing career as a right wing in the minors, but did play four games for the New York Rangers in the 60-61 season. He retired as a player in '71.

KEN HOLLAND
Amateur
Scouting Director

No player reaches the glamorous arenas of the NHL before performing in the hustings somewhere in North America or Europe, and he must first be discovered by the watchful eyes of scouts who try to project how good that player might become in years ahead.

Ken Holland, in his fifth year as the Red Wings' amateur scouting director, has proven adept at finding youngsters who might have some rough edges at age 18 but possess enough potential to be polished into NHL players.

Holland, 38, joined the scouting staff in '85 after finishing his career as a goaltender with Detroit's Adirondack (AHL) farm club. He assumed his present post in July of '89. A native of Vernon, BC, he played in the junior ranks for Medicine Hat (WHL) in 74-75 and was Toronto's 13th pick (188th overall) in the '75 Entry Draft, although he never performed for the Maple Leafs.

Holland twice signed with NHL teams as a free agent — in '80 with Hartford and '83 with Detroit. He spent most of his pro career with AHL clubs in Binghamton and Springfield, along with Adirondack, but did appear in four NHL games, making his debut with Hartford in 80-81 and playing three contests for Detroit in 83-84.

MICHAEL ABBAMONT
Administrative Assistant/
Scouting Coordinator

Among his duties, Abbamont coordinates schedules of the club's scouts in their travels across North America and Europe, compiles ratings books on pro players (NHL, minor leagues and amateurs) and does research for contract negotiations. He also hits the trail to scout pro and amateur players.

Before joining the Red Wings in the summer of '92, Abbamont spent three years in the NHL's Toronto office as assistant to Jim Gregory, the league's vice-president of hockey operations, and Frank Bonello, director of the Central Scouting Bureau. Prior to that, Abbamont got his start in the NHL with three years in the Washington organization as an administrative assistant and chief eastern scout.

Abbamont received a degree in sports administration in '83 from Durham College of Applied Arts & Technology in Oshawa, ONT. He worked in scouting and public relations for the Toronto Marlboros (OHL), held administrative positions with the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, and served as an administrator and scout for the NHL's Central Scouting Bureau.

Michael is single and resides in suburban Detroit.

TRAINING & MEDICAL STAFF

John Wharton is in his third full season as athletic trainer. He joined the club in February of '91 as strength and conditioning coordinator after five years in the Center for Athletic Medicine at Detroit's Henry Ford Hospital. John, a native of Flint, has a bachelor of science degree in sports medicine from Central Michigan and is a certified strength and conditioning specialist. John and wife Jeanne reside in suburban Detroit.

Mark Brennan is in his eighth season as equipment manager/trainer. The Toronto native has an athletic therapy degree from Sheridan College and spent a year as assistant trainer at Adirondack (AHL) after two years as trainer with New Westminster (WHL) and one at Toronto (North American Soccer League). Mark and wife Judy live in suburban Detroit with daughter Meagan.

Assistant Equipment Manager Tim Abbott is in his second season handling numerous jobs in the dressing room, in addition to seeing to the needs of visiting clubs. A native of Mt. Clemens, he attended L'Anse Creuse High School and Macomb Community College, then spent four years as assistant trainer for Adirondack. Tim and wife Kristen reside in suburban Detroit with son Tyler.

Lending a hand with the busy workload in the dressing room are Dominic Marra and Wally Crossman.

The Red Wings' medical staff is comprised of Drs. John Finley, D.O.; David Collon, M.D.; C.J. Regula, D.M.D., and Charles Slater, M.D. Dr. Finley has a general practice in Southfield; Dr. Collon is director of orthopedic surgery at the Center for Athletic Medicine at Henry Ford Hospital and also serves the Tigers and Lions; Dr. Regula has a dental practice in Livonia, and Dr. Slater has an ophthalmology practice at the St. Clair (MI) Eye Medical Center.

RED WINGS ON THE AIR

Red Wings fans unable to be at Joe Louis Arena have the benefit of tuning in two of the NHL's finest broadcasting teams on radio and television.

Hockey Hall of Famer Bruce Martyn is in his 29th season doing play-by-play on radio and is joined for the seventh season by analyst Paul Woods. Flagship station WJR-AM (760) heads a radio network that covers Michigan.

Play-by-play announcer Dave Strader and analyst Mickey Redmond are in their eighth year together on Red Wings television, which includes WKBD (Channel 50), the Pro-Am Sports System (PASS cable) and Special Order Sports (pay-per-view). Fans also can watch the games on cable systems throughout Michigan. PASS rebroadcasts the majority of its telecasts at approximately 11:30 p.m. on the same night games are played.

Martyn, a native of Sault Ste. Marie, MI, began his career in 1950 at hometown station WSOO-AM. He came to Detroit's WCAR-AM in '53, doing sports, a weekday music show and Michigan State football. Bruce joined WKBD when it opened in '62 as an all-sports station and worked for WJR on broadcasts of Detroit Lions and Michigan State football. He moved into the Red Wings' booth in the 1964-65 season — also doing TV games through 84-85 — and remains synonymous with hockey in Detroit. Bruce was inducted into the Hall of Fame in '91 as winner of the Foster Hewitt Award for excellence in hockey broadcasting.

Woods was a popular performer with his hustling style during a seven-year playing career in Detroit from 77-78 through 83-84. The native of Hespeler, ONT, was drafted by Montreal in '75 but never played for the Canadiens and was obtained by Detroit in the '77 waiver draft. He had 72 goals and 124 assists in 501 regular-season NHL games.

Strader came to Detroit in the 85-86 season after six years as broadcaster and public relations director for the Adirondack (AHL) farm club in his hometown of Glens Falls, NY. Dave, a graduate of the University of Massachusetts, twice was honored by the New York State Broadcasters' Association for play-by-play excellence, and received the Ken McKenzie Award once as the AHL's top P.R. man. Dave also has done some games for ESPN.

Redmond twice was a 50-goal scorer in five full seasons with Detroit after being acquired from Montreal with Guy Charron and Bill Collins for Frank Mahovlich in January of '71. He scored 52 goals and made the NHL's First All-Star Team in '73, and netted 51 the next season to earn a Second-Team berth. He had 233 goals and 195 assists in 538 regular-season games over nine NHL seasons with Montreal and Detroit. Mickey also has worked for CBC's "Hockey Night in Canada" and ESPN.

Toby Cunningham, winner of four local Emmy Awards and three Associated Press honors for production of Red Wings telecasts, is in his 14th season as executive producer for Channel 50 coverage. Also producing Channel 50 games is Bryan Cooper. Frank Albin is producing the PASS games for the sixth season and also handles telecasts on Special Order Sports.

Following is the team's radio network (some stations broadcast a limited number of games):

WJR-AM (760), Detroit
WMAX-AM (1440), Bay City
WCHT-AM (600), Escanaba
WMJZ-FM (95.3), Gaylord
WCUZ-AM (1230), Grand Rapids

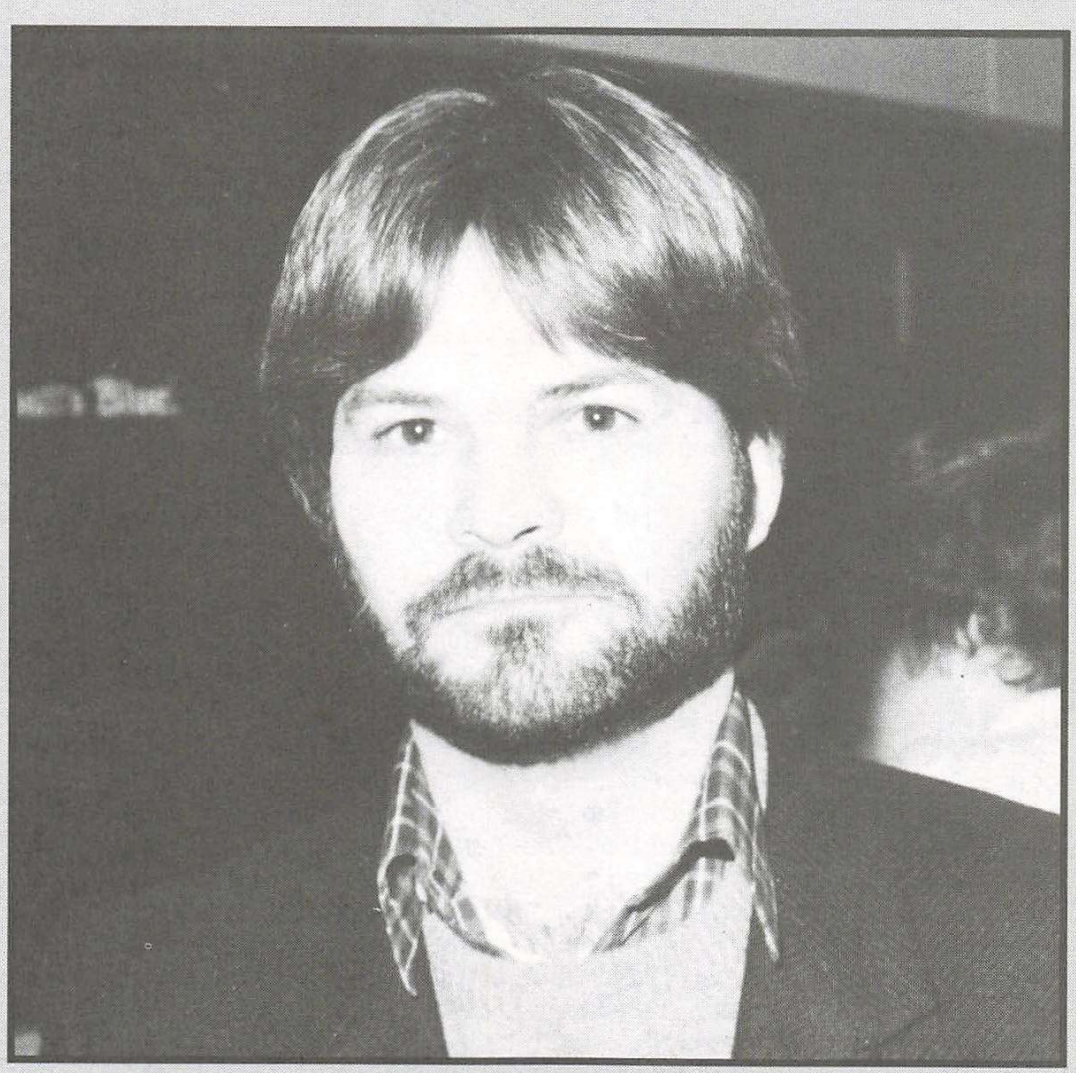
TEAM HISTORY



In Memoriam

MIKE DesROSIERS

January 1, 1952 - June 22, 1993

Team historian, Hockey Hall of Fame volunteer, goaltender in an over-35 league, press box staffer, hockey fan extraordinaire. Mike DesRosiers was all of those, but much more. Loving husband of Gail, devoted father to Marc and Brett, cherished friend to many in the Red Wings' organization.

This media guide is dedicated to Mike, who relished digging up historical information and statistics. But his legacy is not simply hockey trivia and numbers. We honor him best by carrying on his cheerful manner toward everyone and his love for the game.

Sid Abel served Red Wings as player, coach, G.M., broadcaster in career that earned niche in Hall of Fame.

RED WINGS' HISTORY

The Detroit hockey club is in its 68th season and remains one of the National Hockey League's premier franchises, providing outstanding entertainment for the game's most devoted fans.

Last season was an exciting, record-breaking year for the Red Wings, although it came to a heartbreaking halt in the first round of the playoffs when Detroit lost the decisive seventh game in overtime to Toronto.

Detroit set club records in victories and points with a 47-28-9 mark for 103 points. Despite the records, the team finished second in the Norris Division, three points behind Chicago, but the Red Wings still ranked among the league's elite at fifth overall.

The Red Wings were a high-powered offensive team in 1992-93, shattering team records by leading the league with 369 goals and 113 power-play tallies.

The fans got into the record-setting act, too, as 808,282 attended 41 regular-season games for an average of 19,725 per game — in an arena that seats 19,275. It was the first time the team topped the 800,000 mark and seventh time (all in succession) it went past 700,000. Four playoff games drew another 79,500 for a 19,875 average. Entering this season, including regular season and playoffs, the Red Wings have drawn more than 19,000 for 273 of their last 275 games, 161 in a row, with 260 sellouts in that span, 127 in succession.

This success can be traced to June 22, 1982 — the day Mike Ilitch purchased a team that had fallen on hard times and began transforming it into the NHL's most profitbable franchise. In Ilitch's 11 years at the helm, the club has won three division titles (87-88, 88-89, 91-92) and made two trips to the Campbell Conference playoff final ('87, '88). Eight times the team has made the playoffs in that stretch, including six of the past seven years.

Detroit has had a love affair with hockey from the days at Olympia Stadium in the late 1920s to the present at Joe Louis Arena, which opened for hockey Dec. 27, 1979. People flock to the arena, along with watching and listening in big numbers on radio and TV, and the area has some of the finest youth programs in North America producing future players and lifelong fans.

Pro hockey came to Detroit Sept. 25, 1926, when a group of Detroit businessmen purchased an NHL franchise and stocked it with players from the Victoria Cougars of the Western Hockey League. The club was called the Detroit Cougars but played its inaugural season across the Detroit River in Canada at Windsor's Border Cities Arena.

The Cougars' first NHL game was Nov. 18, 1926, and they dropped a 2-0 decision to the Boston Bruins. Detroit won the next game, 4-2 over the New York Americans, but went on to finish last with a 12-28-4 record in a 44-game schedule.

The Cougars moved into new Olympia Stadium on Grand River Avenue for their second season and played the first game there Nov. 22, 1927. Detroit's Johnny Sheppard scored the first goal, but the Cougars suffered a 2-1 loss to the defending champion Ottawa Senators. Detroit registered its first home victory and shutout Nov. 27 as goaltender "Hap" Holmes posted a 2-0 decision over the Montreal Canadiens.

That season marked the arrival of Jack Adams, who made a tremendous impact on hockey in Detroit. Adams replaced Art Duncan as general manager/coach and began a 35-year association with the club that led to the Hockey Hall of Fame.

In 1928-29, Detroit finished third and made the first of 42 playoff appearances in 67 seasons. The team changed its name to Falcons in 1930 at the urging of Detroit media who thought a new monicker might bring some luck to a club that had missed the playoffs the previous season. No luck, however, as Detroit again missed the playoffs, although the Falcons did gain a berth in 1931-32.

In the summer of 1932, American industrialist James Norris bought the franchise and renamed it Red Wings. He imported the name from Canada, where he had played hockey for a club called the Winged Wheelers in the Montreal Athletic Association. That team's insignia — a winged wheel — struck Norris as a natural for a club representing the Motor City. The emblem became an automobile tire with a flying wing attached and has remained the same except for some minor artistic variations.

The Red Wings became an NHL power under Norris and Adams. In 1933-34, they won the first of 13 regular-season NHL titles and reached the Stanley Cup final for the first time before bowing to the Chicago Blackhawks, three games to one, in a best-of-five series. The Red Wings have finished first 16 times, including the three recent Norris Division titles.

The Red Wings dominated the NHL in 1935-36 and 36-37, winning a pair of regular-season championships and their first two Stanley Cup titles — a prize the club has won seven times. Detroit won its third Cup championship in 1943, but the best was yet to come.

Adams assembled a team in the late '40s that ranks among the NHL's greatest dynasties. Between the 1948-49 and 54-55 seasons, the Red Wings won seven consecutive regular-season titles — a league record that still stands — and four Stanley Cup championships.

Detroit remained strong through the late 1950s and into the '60s, winning two more regular-season titles but bowing four times in the Cup final — most recently in 1966 against Montreal.

The Norris family retained ownership of the team for 50 years. The elder Norris served as club president until his death in 1952 and was succeeded by his daughter, Marguerite. Norris' son, Bruce, took over as president in 1955 and remained in that post until selling the club to Ilitch in '82.

The Red Wings have featured some of the game's brightest stars — including the greatest of them all, Gordie Howe — and today they still showcase some of the best players in the world. Forty-six people associated with the club are in the Hockey Hall of Fame. Detroit players have been voted to postseason NHL All-Star teams 90 times, and club players, coaches and executives have won individual league trophies on 48 occasions.

The Red Wings' rich tradition continues with a pride that revels in past accomplishments and fosters optimism for the future.

PRESS, RADIO, TV INFORMATION

The Red Wings are happy to serve you, and we appreciate your cooperation. Please phone Public Relations office at (313) 396-7537 if you have questions, comments or suggestions. Thank you.

SEASON PASS: Valid for preseason, regular-season games; available only to authorized media covering majority of games.

GAME PASS: Valid for one specific game; available to authorized media covering limited number of games.

HOW TO APPLY: Applications for season or single-game passes must be submitted on company letterhead to Red Wings' Public Relations Office, Joe Louis Arena, Detroit, MI 48226, or by FAX, (313) 567-0296. Single-game passes must be requested 24 hours in advance. Credential requests subject to review by Detroit chapter of Professional Hockey Writers' Association or Detroit Sports Broadcasters' Association. Please enter arena through West Gate press entrance, located on Third Avenue.

PRESS BOX & RADIO-TV BOOTHS: Located at top of arena seats on west side of building and reached by taking either East Gate or West Gate elevator to third floor. Equipped with Charge-a-Call phones, VDT outlets. Coffee, soda, beer, popcorn available. State law prohibits smoking in press box; city law forbids taking beverage cans from press box into arena seating area.

MEDIA LOUNGE: Located in hallway near Red Wings' dressing room on side of arena facing Detroit River. Opens two hours before game, remains open 45 minutes after game. Hot meals and pizza served before games, pizza afterward. Coffee, soda, beer available. Due to limited space, guests are not permitted.

PRACTICE SESSIONS: The dressing room closed to media before and during practice and opens 10 minutes after head coach leaves ice following practice. Access is limited to 30-minute duration, although exceptions could be made. In event of team meeting immediately after practice, the room opens at conclusion of meeting.

GAME DAY/NIGHT: Dressing room open to media for half-hour up to 90 minutes before game time (6 p.m. deadline for night game, 11:30 a.m. for matinee). Room open to media no later than 10 minutes after game and access limited to a 45-minute duration, although exceptions to latter could be made.

PREGAME TV-RADIO INTERVIEWS: Television and radio stations desiring live or taped pregame interviews must request coach or player and state specific time of interview to P.R. staff before or during game-day morning skate. Interviews to be conducted no later than 90 minutes before game time (6 p.m. deadline for night game, 11:30 for matinee), must be done apart from players' locker area.

BETWEEN-PERIOD TV INTERVIEWS: Requests must be made before or during game-day morning skate.

OFF-LIMITS: Not open to media are medical room, weight room and players' lounge.

PHOTOGRAPHERS: Those requiring specific vantage points are to phone P.R. office no later than 2 p.m. on game day at (313) 396-7537. Please state how long photographer will stay at game.

PARKING: Reporters/photographers for daily newspapers/wire services or reporters/camerapersons from TV/radio stations who cover majority of games may park at no charge in media section of Joe Louis Arena Garage. This city-owned parking garage has limited space and charges P.R. department for each media car parked; therefore, Red Wings regretfully are unable to accomodate everyone for free. Receipts available.

SCHEDULE

Each team plays 84-game schedule.

Teams in Western Conference play six games against each of five divisional opponents (30 games), four games against each of six teams in other division in conference (24 games) and two contests against each of 14 teams in Eastern Conference (28 games).

Teams in Eastern Conference play five games against each of six divisional opponents (30 games), four games against each of seven teams in other division of conference (28 games) and two contests against each of 12 opponents in Western Conference (24 games).

Neutral-site contests, games 83 and 84, are subject to negotiation between NHL and Players' Association and would be added to above games.

TIE-BREAKER FORMULA

To break tie in final regular-season standings, following methods are used:

1. Most overall victories; 2. Best record in games between tied teams (in Eastern Conference, first home game of club hosting odd number of contests would not count); 3. Best differential between goals for and goals against during 84-game regular season; 4. Meeting or conference call between league general managers.

STANLEY CUP PLAYOFFS

Conference-based system matches No. 1 team vs. No. 8, No. 2 vs. No. 7, No. 3 vs. No. 6, No. 4 vs. No. 5. Four division winners receive first two seeds in each conference; therefore, No. 2 seed could be division winner with fewer points than lower seeds.

All series best-of-seven, with home-ice rotating on 2-2-1-1-1 basis, except Western Conference championship between Central and Pacific division clubs, which is 2-3-2 to reduce travel (in latter, team with most points can choose to start series at home or on road).

Western and Eastern conference champions meet in Stanley Cup final.
